CLAUD R. LAWSON DESCRIBES SMYRNA OUTRAGES BY TURKS

The editor of the Bryan Eagle is in receipt of a very dramatic letter from Claud R. Lawson, a Bryan boy now Chief Radioman on the U S S Lawrence in Asia Minor waters and who witnessed some of the atrocities of the Turks in the recent warlike demonstrations. The letter is given below: "U. S. S. Lawrence, Smyrna, Asia Minor, September 15, 1922. Dear Mr. Rountree:—Perhaps you will be interested in some of the details of the most horrible tragedy of modern times by an actual eye witness. The destroyer Lawrence was peacefully anchored in Constantinople, last Friday, giving the crew a chance to recuperate after six hectic weeks in the Black Sea, during which we saw some of the results of Bolshevism in Odessa, Novorossick and Theodosia, when word came that the Turks were only ten miles away from Smyrna. Then things began to hum at the American naval headquarters. The Simpson and the Litchfield were rushed to the scene and arrived at Smyrna the following morning. The Lawrence loaded relief workers, newspaper men and bread and late Saturday afternoon we got under way, arriving here at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. On our way into the harbor we passed the Greek army retreating along the beach and the Greek fleet with a few refugees and the Greek high commissioner passed right alongside of us. The Turkish army, or at least the advance guard entered the city about noon, seemingly very quietly and took over the city in an orderly manner. The Turkish general in command issued strict orders to respect the lives of the inhabitants, property of foreigners and made the penalty for looting, death. The allied warships in the harbor fell for it, so to speak. They should have known that there was a cat in the bag somewhere. But when they saw the horse-cars running along the beach and the stores re-open, they considered he job finished. The Lawrence went back to Constantinople the next day.

"From Constantinople, we went down to Panderma, where the Greek army is evacuating Asia Minor, sized up the situation and then started back to Constantinople. On our return rip to Constantinople, the following radio message from the Litchfield was intercepted: "'Smyrna ablaze from south end of Frank street to about end of Rue Thrassa and within two blocks of waterfront. Separate fire in bazars. Fresh southwest breeze. Hundreds thousands persons packed on quay. Difficult to see how any may be saved. Almost all Americans accounted for and few missing are those best able to take care of themselves. Bannes requests repeat to Department State Signed Hepburn.' At that time we were 50 miles from Smyrna. Our captain said make it in ten hours or blow up the boilers. The Lawrence had 'a bone in her teeth' and we anchored off the Standard Oil installation exactly nine hours and fifty minues later. hirty minutes later our machine gunners were ashore and protecting the American property.

"On our port side the city was ablaze. Directly in front of us thousands of miserable refugees, old men, women and children, the innocents who always suffer most in war, were slowly trudging over the hills, trying to escape from their burning homes. Suddenly Turkish cavalrymen darted out in front of them and began driving them back. Those who hesitated were bayoneted as the Turks consider ammunition to kill Christians wasted. At this point the road runs along the sea and hundreds plunged in and were drowned, rather than fall into the hands of the Turks. Some few more plucky than the rest attempted to swim out to us, and at that time we were anchored over a mile from shore and the tide was agains them. One little girl completely won the hearts of this crew by her courage and daring. She couldn't have been over ten or eleven years old, yet she was the gamest swimmer I ever saw. She reached the ship safely and willing hands pulled her aboard. Her mother an old woman about 50 years old also managed to swim out to the ship. The little girl had been very brave and cheerful until her mother told her that her three sisters and brother had been butchered by the Turks, then she broke down and cried so pitifully that even the officer of the deck had tears in his eyes—and he is as hard-boiled as they ever get to be. Here is the hard part, it's against International law to offer an asylum to hese people and we had to send them back to the beach in our boat. The ship's company almost mutineered when they tried to put the little girl in the boat, she had all our respect and sympathy, even if she was a Greek. At least a dozen of the men wanted to adopt her but there was absolutely nothing doing. So they started her back to the beach. She never reached there, she jumped from the boat and deliberately drowned herself—which is a better fate than would have been hers if she had been put ashore with the rest of them. They were killed by the Turks almost before our boat started back to the ship.

"Last night was terrible and the details so horrible that it don't seem possible such things could have been allowed to happen in any civilized world. The thousands of miserable refugees after being chased all over the hills during the day by the Turks were finally herded along he waterfront again. Behind them was the burning city, in front of them the sea and at each end of the quay a company of Turkish machine gunners. They were tired and starv- and here they were jammed tighter ing, nothing to eat or drink for days than sardines in a box. Many sick, crippled or wounded and most of the women seemed to have babies in their arms and more clinging to their skirts. One thing this section of the world seems to have been prosperous in was babies, I never saw so many before. You have a word picture of the refugees—now comes the finale. The Turks put bundles of oil soaked waste and wood on horses and camels, set them afire and turned them into the refugees. The pain-crazed animals ran wild, trampling these poor people to death or driving them into the sea where there was nothing left for them to do but drown. If they tried to get through at the ends of he quay they were met by a rain of machine gun bullets and fell in droves. On the other side the burning city, a regular hell on earth. So we draw the curtain on thousands of innocent Greeks and Armenians.

"Today the city is still burning. The Turks are hunting out the survivors and systematically killing them off. They claim they are going to rid Asia Minor of Christians for ever. Perhaps they have another think coming. They were foolish enough to kill several British subjects during the early stages of the fire, and also bumped off a few Frenchmen who interfered with them or protested against the ruthless murder being done. The English North Atlantic battle fleet has been ordered to Constantinople to reinforce the regular detachment in Turkish waters, the French have ordered all available battleships to the scene and we hear the USS Utah, flagship of he American-European detachment, is rushing to Constantinople. The French, English and Italians have thousands of troops massed in Constaninople, ready to move upon a moment's notice. 'Big doings' seem to be brewing. The Turks, flushed with their success over the Greeks now think they can whip the world and have given the Allies eight day's notice to get out of Constantinople or meet the same fate as the people of Smyrna. The Soviet government is right with the Turks and has offered them all the assistane of of the Red Army in Georgia and Asia Minor. But the Englishmen are 'bloody well ready for the blighters' as they would express it and can give them all they are looking for if hey do actually ry to take Constantinople.

"War is all General Sherman said it was, especially the way they run wars over in this part of the world. There are many thousands of refugees left around here and their condition is desperate. The American Near-East Relief is doing all it can for them with the limited facilities now available. They are going to need money, food and clothing, all they can get, if they even touch the distress of these people. So, Mr. Rountree, as I still consider Bryan my home, I wan to appeal to my fellow townsmen to meet the appeal generously. This is really a most deserving case for charity and the Near-East people are the logical ones to handle it. The Turks won't recognize and Missionary missions now operating here, but they do allow the Near-East as much latitude as can be expected from them. Please pardon the incoherence and mistakes in this letter. The sights I have seen these past five days are enough to drive anyone crazy and at times I think I'm slipping. But it's war and none of America's business, they say, nevertheless I'm just chicken-hearted enough to fully sympathize with the innocent victims of Turkish greed and lust. Sincerely, your friend, CLAUDE R. LAWSON, Chief Radioman, USS Lawrence, care Posmaster, Foreign Station Annex, New York City."

THE ASHBURN-COOK WEDDING SOLEMNIZED

Numbers of the admiring friends and associates of Colonel Ike S Ashburn, Jr., commandant of the College will go to Navasota Wednesday evening to attend the ceremony of his marriage to Miss Beulah Templeman Cook of that city. It will be solemnized in the First Methodist Church at 8:30. Those who have been closest to him, reveling in the joy of the comradeship which he was able to bestow upon them because of absence of matrimonial restraints will be members of the wedding party. D. X. Bible will head the list of those honored by the occasion. He will be the best man. Miss Olive Emory of Navasota, will be the maid of honor. Cadet Colonel John C. Mayfield will represent the cadet corps in the wedding party as an usher. On account of the weak physical condition of Major Templeman, grandfather of the bride there will be no reception following the ceremony. From the church the bridal party and the immediate members of the family will go to the home of the bride for an informal reception. None but the bridal party and relatives will go to the home. A reception for all his College and Bryan friends and the friends of Miss Cook was planned and the necessity of abandoning the hospitality is regretted very much. Colonel Ashburn stated yesterday. Because of the inability of Colonel Ashburn to leave the College at this season of the year there will be no extended trip following the wedding. They plan to slip away from their friends by some means which has not been revealed following the gathering at the home of the bride but will return in two or three days. F. A. Liddell of Houston, who served as a captain in Colonel Ashburn's regiment in the war overseas is the only man in the party outside of the local circle of Colonel Ashburn's friends.

REPORT OF A BRAZOS COUNTY CLUB GIRL

Miss Laura B. Roten, home demonstration agent, in Brazos county is in receipt of an interesting letter from Miss Agnes Conway, a former Brazos county club girl and prize winner, but now a student in C. I. A. at Denton, Texas. The letter should prove interesting and inspiring to other club girls and is given herewith: "Dear Miss Roten:—I'm getting along nicely with my work this year. I am taking a full course and and doing assistant dietitian work to pay my expenses. When I came this fall I did not know for certain that I could stay the entire session for I had no promise of work, but luckily I am working as student assistant to the dietitian. This keeps me very busy but you know when a person is busy he has not time for mischief. My course this year consists of Bible, physics, history, dietitics, and sociology. You can readily see that I do have quite a bit of work but don't feel quite at home unless I am busy. I wish I could express in words, my appreciation to the Brazos County Canning Club for the benefit I arrived from its teachings. I would probably not be a student at the College of Industrial Arts, had I not been a member of the club for it was through its influence that I came to College. I hope the other club girls will picture college life as I did and, even though they have no money to pay their expenses come on any way. That is what I did, and a bit of work has not hurt me, but has afforded pleasure and happiness during the past two years of my college work. There comes days of discouragement but they bring with them determination to keep on striving. Write me about your success in the club. I'm always interested to hear about it. Mother says Edith has "fallen in love" with her work. I surely hope her interest remains throughout the four years. I must go back to my dear old "Food and Nutrition" and bid you a sweet goodbye."

The little five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hall was the victim of a painful accident on Sunday, when he fell while at play, breaking the leg bone between the knee and ankle. The little fellow was visiting at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Johnnie Koppe at Kurten when the accident occurred. He was hurried to the Bryan Hospital where the injured limb received surgical attention, after which he was carried to the home of his parents, and is reported doing nicely today.

REPORT ON PROPER PROCEDURE TO KILL COTTON BOLL WEEVIL

(Special to the Eagle)

To HON. J. C. GEORGE, Chairman, Texas Boll Weevil Conference: Dallas, Texas, Oct. 20.—Your committee, appointed to submit technical information of the boll weevil to support concerted action in a fall clean-up to control this insect, begs leave to submit the following: The efficiency of the fall clean-up, advocated for the control of the boll weevil, is predicated upon four established facts concerning this insect: (1) The boll weevil feeds on nothing but parts of the green cotton plant. (2) The boll weevil lays its eggs and grows to maturity in nothing but living forms of bolls of the cotton plant. (3) The boll weevil, while inactive during the winter can live several months without food but as shown by repeated experiments, cannot live longer than six days without food while active, and (4) It cannot, at will, become inactive, for the winter, but becomes so only when impelled by increasingly cold weather—roughly speaking, at a time corresponding to our first frost.

Infestation, in the spring, is exceedingly light, but rapidly becomes heavy because of the insects' great reproductive powers and the short time (about three weeks) required for it to pass through one generation. Spring infestation is initiated from the few adult weevils that successfully pass the winter in Spanish moss and beneath trash along fences and ditches. Only a very small percentage of the insects, going into winter quarters in such places, are able to successfully pass the winter and practically all the individuals, constituting this small percentage, are those with the greatest vitality when cold weather in the fall, forced them into winter quarters—that is, the individuals only recently developed, and at the same time, well fed before frost. Early killing of cotton plants accomplishes two things in boll weevil control; (1) It deprives the weevils of a breeding place, so that the ones entering winter quarters are more or less aged. (2) It deprives all the weevils of food, either by starving them before cold weather allows them to enter winter quarters or forcing them into such quarters hungry and in a weakened condition.

To accomplish boll weevil destruction in the fall, it is necessary to kill the cotton plant, root and stalk, and keep it killed during the fall and winter. Merely pasturing will not accomplish this, unless there are sufficient animals to consume the total growth within three or four days. The mere use of stalk cutters or clipping machines are not sufficient, because they allow a new growth to spring up from the roots within a few days that make ideal food for the weevil.

It is desirable from the farmers standpoint to reduce the plant growth to a condition where it will be easily incorporated into the soil. The use of a stalk cutter followed with a disc will accomplish this purpose. The committee would urge that the cotton roots then be turned out by plowing. Where it can be done, flat breaking will be the best method. If there is not time to do this, the middles may be merely "busted out", or turned out with a plow set shallow. A hoe should then be used to kill any plants remaining.

Conditions will arise in some sections that will make one of these methods more practical than the other. Where flat breaking will result in erosion from the winter rains, a cover crop of rye, barley or oats is advised. This will prevent erosion, furnish winter pasturage and may be lightly turned under in the spring as a green manure.

Killing the plant root and stalk as above outlined is, according to plant pathologists, effective in the control of root rot. The killing of the plant and working of the soil in the fall is also recommended by agriculturists as favoring early maturity of the cotton, the following season.

We would advise against the practice of burning to remove cotton stalks. This impoverishes the soil and accomplishes very little in weevil control that the up-rooting of the cotton plant will not affect. Burning the hibernation places of the weevil along fences and ditches where many pass the winter in grass, is recommended, but this should not be done in any case until mid winter when the weevil is hibernated there. We believe that this matter of burning hibernating places should not at this time be given wide publicity, as many farmers are apt to depend upon this and neglect the present killing of the cotton plants.

The boll weevil migrates for some distances in search of food during spring and summer, although its greatest dispersion seems to be in the fall. While the fall clean-up over a comparatively small area will bring relief from infestation the following year to some degree, it must be plain that the result will be somewhat in proportion to the extent of territory that is cleaned up, hence it is urged to make a campaign extensive as well as intensive. The measures suggested have been proven effective as corroborated by official observation, but the difficulty in securing concerted action over a wide area has heretofore prevented general execution of the clean-up. Respectfully submitted, R. R. REPPERT, Chairman, M. C. TANGUARY, R. E. McDONALD, AND W. D. HUNTER."

GRAND CHAPTER EASTERN STAR WILL LOCATE TEXAS HOME TODAY

Session at Dallas is Working to Build Home and Many Towns Including Marshall, Arlington, San Marcos and Sugarland Are in Contest.

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Texas, October 26.—The fortieth annual convention of the grand chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star, was deadlocked today over the selection of a site for the proposed home for aged members of the order and indications were that the subject would not be disposed of until late today, the last day of the sessions, which opened in Dallas Monday. The question of the home site location had not been put to a vote last afternoon, and but three of the several cities bidding for the site had put forth their arguments, it was said. Selection of the home site has been the issue around which the convention has centered since its opening. Marshall, Arlington and San Marcos are making a vigorous fight for the location of the new home. San Antonio, Brownwood, Sugarland and Cisco are in the race also. Mrs. Lee J. Rountree and Mrs. M. R. Bentley, of Bryan, are attending and representing Bryan Chapter No. 222.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

The Houston Post of October 25, 1897, twenty-five years ago, says: "Major W. R. Cavitt of Bryan, director of the Agricultural and Mechanical college, while in the city spoke in high praise of the college. He said students were being turned away for lack of accomodations. He thought the legislature should provide for the enlargement of the institution so that Texas boys would not have to go out of the State for an education."

The concert by the Chicago Grand Opera Quartet, consisting og Miss Barbara Wait, Miss Irene Jonani, Adamo Dockray and Wm. Michaelis given Tuesday evening was rereived with great success by receiving stations all over the state according to reports being received here. MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED PRESS

"To the penitentiary with the bootleggers," says the Dallas Times-Herald. And at the same time there are some sheriffs and some constables and county attorneys in Texas who ought to go to the penitentiary with the bootleggers. They are not only deaf, dumb, blind, and ignorant but they are criminals of the first class. There are several counties in Texas that elect public officers who really should be in the penitentiary—or hanged.

The present election law gives every disreputable and degenerate politician in Texas a chance to break every political obligation and continue to break them. A law ought to make men honest who have no regard for their pledges and agreements. Some corrupt politicians ought to be made to do right or be forced out of the game.

The Eagle returns thanks to Col. B. Sbsia for copies of the Havana (Cuba) Post that he brought on his return from his visit to the island. One of the important items in the Post is an account of a Philadelphia cat learning to waltz to music. There are several other good American stories in the Post.

It seems that several district judges and several sheriffs in Texas ought to be in the penitentiary—and some ought to be hanged. They are so corrupt that a ten-penny nail put in their pockets will come out a corkscrew. The Augean stables ought to be cleaned out instanter by an outraged people.

OVERHEAD

We have found out the answer to Editor Lee J. Rountree's pertinent inquiry, in the Bryan Eagle as to 'what is overhead?" It is the burden of debt hanging over us more menacingly than the sword of Damocoles.—Col. George Tucker in Gilmer Mirror.

"Overhead," Colonel Tucker, covers the difference between a ton of cabbage in the Rio Grande Valley at $4.50 and its selling price in the Dallas hotels at $1,995 with tips amounting to $385. "Overhead" applies to every commodity peaches, tomatoes, watermelons, diamonds, beefsteaks and corn whisky.

It is the invisible power that is making inefficiency and unrest. Overhead is making thieves, grafters and flunkies of thousands of American people. It is the menace and the snare and the delusion. It is the hidden destroying-hand that must be checked. It comes with the wind and departs in the darkness of the night. It makes fools, cowards and criminals out of men and still men ask what is "overhead" and who desires a ton of cabbage?. It applies to every commodity on earth and cabbage is only a figure and the overhead spoken of by Col. Tucker is only one phase of the problem that grew out of the war through grafters and profiteers—large and small. It is a "cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night."

Henry Ford was confronted with $10,000,000 in overhead and he refused to pay it. The rent profiteer assesses his overhead and the world pays it. It must be passed on because we are too cowardly to strike it a death blow. "It is the avauntour of greed, the Atilla of poverty and the scourge of God." Overhead is all powerful, Col. Tucker.

MILLICAN FAIR TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 8

(Special to the Eagle).

MILLICAN, Texas, Oct. 21.—This place was visited Tuesday by a cool north wind, which is thought by lots of people will be a great help to destroy the dengue fever, which has been raging at this place for the past five are six weeks and hardly any have escaped so far. Some are doing so well as to have it the second time. The Millican Community Club met Monday night and arragned for their fair catalog to be published at an early date. Prizes and programs were also arranged and the fair date set for November 8th. Everybody is invited, tell your friends and tell them to tell their friends.

Cotton picking is a thing of the past with us, but some cotton in the bottom is still to be gathered. The cotton crop turned out better than expected, but corn didn't do so well. Most everybody that can are using their fields for pasture as the stock is in poor condition.

The barn of H. B. Crawford, who lives one mile south of town was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. He had about two tons of hay and some other feed that was also consumed in the flames.

Miss Anne Prichett, advisory nurse for South Texas, for Southwestern Division, American Red Cross, departed for Houston this afternoon after an official visit to the Brazos County Red Cross chapter.

BRAZOS COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS CLUBDEPT

Club Notes and Farm News by County Agent C. L. Beason.

Efforts are being made to induce the railroad to put on a special train from Bryan to Houston on November 17, Club Day at the Houston Fair, and if this can be arranged, the railroad giving a low rate, we have no doubt but that several hundred will go from Brazos County. The county sending the greatest number of club members on that day will receive $100 in cash. If Brazos County wins this money it will be turned back to the club members as prizes for club work next year. With Harris County barred from the contest, Brazos County ought to win with only fifty percent of her club members attending. If you are interested in this trip notify the county or home demonstrating agent, as the railroad officials may ask for definite information during the next few days. Club leaders should ascertain the number desiring to make the trip and notify the county agent at the earliest possible time.

Winnie Harris, club member at Tabor, makes the following report on her cotton project: Total cost, labor, seed, fertilizer, ginning, etc., $20.82; production on 1 acre, 1,200 pounds; net profit, $78.18. This good yield was made possible, in the face of severe drought, by good seed, careful cultivation, and proper fertilization, three essentials for most of the land in Brazos County. Try them on your farming next year and let's have your report on the experiment.

Homer D .Wade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce said, in speaking at the Southwest Business Conference at Dallas recently, that one of the best things done for the farmers of his county was the co-operations of the banks in lending farmers money to purchase standard bred poultry, thousands of dollars having come to the farmers as a result of this one industry built up by the assistance of the Extension Service of the A. & M. College of Texas.

What doth it profit a man to raise a little cotton and then have to buy feed for his horses, hogs, cows, poultry, and bread for the family? People with no feed stuffs are dumping their livestock on the market at rediculously low prices, rather than try to keep them and see them starve during the winter. What else can be done? No pastures, no feed stuff saved, and no winter grazing crops sown, and cattle poorer than they have been for a long time at this season of the year. Let us have your plan. "With a multitude of counselors there is safety."

Possibly one of the best demonstrations showing the benefits of using pure bred sires was the exhibition at the Dallas Fair by the Mistletoe Creameries of "Mistletoe Maid and her Mother," a scrub cow with a heifer calf from a pure bred sire.

When asked to point out some characteristic of a good dairy cow, one club boy spoke up and said, "she has four legs," possibly the only point he could see commending her as a dairy cow.

It is said that the former owner, a farmer of Quanah, Texas, offered the cow for sale at $25, but received no acceptance. Later, when "Mistletoe Maid" was four months old, he was offered $40 for the calf, this showing some of the benefits of pure bred sires.

Club boys who attended the Dallas Fair and saw this exhibition will receive some handsome prizes for the best stories written about this cow and calf. Brazos County boys ought to get busy.

C. B. Martin, teacher of vocational agriculture at Smetana, Prospect and Leonard, is having his boys meet County Agent C. L. Beason in field demonstrations in terracing land in order that the boys may be able to terrace their own farms, or continue the work in their respective neighborhoods.

The county agent is now ready to begin an intensive campaign of terracing land. It is hoped that at least ten thousand acres may be terraced during the next three months. This can be made possible only by community demonstrations, at which farmers may learn to do the work for themselves and then continue the work according to the demonstrations. A dozen farmers can learn at each demonstration and be able to continue the work for themselves and their neighbore who may need assistance. In no other way can we get very far with terracing all the land needing it in Brazos County. An impossibility for the county agent to terrace for each individual farmer, a practice in violation of the principles of the Extension Service. Each community should select some field o rfarm as a demonstration and ask the county agent to assist in showing how the work ought to be done, and at these demonstrations at least two farmers should take special training to become community leaders in terracing. In addition to this, one or more farm levels should be provided for each community as well as a Martin ditcher, or terracing machine. Three or four farmers might go in together and purchase level and machine for their own use. In this way we might hope to make progress in terracing.

Elzie Francis, an enterprising farmer of the Tabor community, says fall preparation of land last fall paid him well in this year's crop, the land so prepared making a third of a bale, while other land not so prepared, and yet right in the same field, made a bale to every five acres. Prepare land NOW.

Mr. L. D. Borden of the State Department of Education, Austin, stated in his address to the Edge people last Friday night that the record of 42 bushels of corn made by one of the Edge club members, Waldon Orr, was more than double the average for the whole state. Considering everything, 42 bushels was a good yield this year, but we hope some Brazos County club member will double that yield next year. Begin preparation of land now, if you expect largest yield.

Trustees of Mudville school have asked the county agent to organize a boys' club in that community in order that some of the benefits of the work may come to the boys and girls of that school. Club work is coming into its own, and people are beginning to see what it means for the boys and girls of Texas. We expect to organize all clubs in the county during the next month, in order that our projects may be started early, thus giving best opportunity for best records. Some handsome prizes await the earnest and successful efforts of ambitious boys and girls enrolled in club work next year. Are you ready to enlist with this band of busy workers? We hope to have a county-wide club meet just as soon as the clubs are organized. Millican club has already re-organized and is now making progress. We desire to have your reports for this year's work by November 15. See that your record books are properly filled out. Regardless of the success of your work, we need your report.

YES, ADVERTISING PAYS.

Mrs. W. R. Fairman reports that advertisements in the Eagle bring results. A gentleman lost his watch and put in an advertisement and found his watch under his pillow. This reminds us of the story told by Mr. W. E. Graham of Wellborn. He says a man in his neighborhood advertised for a lost pig in the Eagle and the next morning the pig was at the gate. Advertising is wonderful.

BRYAN-COLLEGE IMPROVEMENTS

The board of directors and the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce held a very important and interesting meeting Tuesday morning and a number of live questions were and acted on. Highways, public improvements, schools and trade extension were discussed by Dr. W. B. Bizzell, John M. Lawrence, City Manager E. E. McAdams, A. M. Waldrop, Major L. L. McInnis, Mayor Tyler Haswell, County Agent C. L. Bacon, R. S. Webb, Prof. R. O. Allen and others. President W. H. Cole presided and Secretary S. E. Eberstadt was at the desk. Present were: Prof. R. O. Allen, Dr W. B. Bizzell, W .H. Cole, J. N. Dulaney, E. J. Fountain, Tyler Haswell, Jno. M Lawrence, T. K. Lawrence, J. D. Martin, Oak McKenzie, E. E. McAdams, Major L. L. McInnis, Lee J. Rountree, A. M. Waldrop, M. E. Wallace, R. S. Webb, County Agent C. L. Beason and Secretary L. E. Eberstadt.

THE MILLICAN FAIR

Secretary Eberstadt reported that the Millican Fair would be held on Wednesday, November 8. Mr. A. M. Waldrop offered a motion which was adopted that the citizens of Bryan be asked to attend the fair and that the names of all those who attend be given to the secretary. The board pledged its support to the Millican Fair.

FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES

County Agent C. L. Beason stated that as the building improvements extended from Bryan to College the need of a public school for the South Side would soon become evident and he proposed to donate two acres of land for reservation for school purposes. The proposition was a generous one and was accepted by a unanimous vote of the board.

COLLEGE-BRYAN ROAD

It was agreed that the Highway Committee consult with the Brazos County Commissioners' Court regarding the cost of College-Bryan Highway from deterioration in the future. This question was discussed by City Manager McAdams who said whatever was done in the future is a new proposition as the construction company had fulfilled its part of the contract and was discharged under the agreement. The action was agreed to upon motion of Dr. Bizzell.

TRADE EXTENSION.

Chairman Jno. M. Lawrence discussed the trade extension in the territory surrounding Bryan showing the necessity of good roads and a broader business reach and it was agreed that the Trade Extension Committee take up the question and hold some meetings in the surrounding communities. Mr. A. M. Waldrop, speaking for the trade extension committee, stated that definite action would be taken in a few days. It developed in the discussion that many improvements at Bryan and College were now under way.

IDEAL WEATHER FOR DESTROYING BOLL WEEVIL IN BRAZOS COUNTY

(Special to the Bryan Eagle)

DALLAS, Texas, October 25.—The general rain covering Texas during the past few days has made conditions ideal for the progress of the boll weevil control campaign by autumn plowing, according to the Texas Chamber of Commerce, which is receiving reports from various parts as to the progress of the work. Though the cotton crop has been picked in many parts of the northern section of the state, dry, hard ground has made plowing difficult. Since the rain, however, reports from Lamar, Smith and other counties in eastern and northeastern Texas indicate that the early plowing campaign will go ahead rapidly. The clean-up campaign has already been completed in parts of South Texas. If mild weather continues several weeks of effective working time are left, according to the advisory committee, headed by R. R. Reppert of the Extension Department of the A. & M. College. The weevil hibernates after first frost and any complete clean-up of cotton fields which is completed at least six days prior to frost will usually starve the weevil before hibernation period sets in, or if the weevil is not starved, its weakened condition causes it to succumb to the rigors of winter. The destruction of squares and green foliage also stops breeding and eliminates the young weevils which are best adapted to living through the period of hibernation. Letters are being received by the Texas Chamber of Commerce asking about the minimum amount of ground which can be effectively controlled by early plowing. According to the advisory committee of entomologists, the best results are obtained in case the farmers of a community or even whole county cooperate in the clean-up campaign. Very good results have been obtained, however, by cooperation among three or four adjoining farms, or even in cases of single cotton fields, especially in case they are surrounded by pasture lands.

FORD CAR NOW LOWEST IN COMPANY HISTORY

According to a statement just issued by Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, a general reduction of $50 a car has been made in the prices of Ford Model T. Cars and Ford 1 Ton truck, effective October 17th. "The revision of prices", said Mr. Ford, "is the result of the increased volume of business which our Company has enjoyed during the present year, and also to the fact that we now own and operate many of our own sources of raw material, which enables us to continue increasing the quality of our product and at the same time keep the price so low that Ford cars are in reach of everybody. "Our production for 1922 is already in excess of a million, which has been an important factor in bringing down the costs. Our present daily output is averaging better than 5,000 cars and trucks, which means a complete car or truck every 5 1-2 seconds of each eight-hour working day. It is in anticipation of this continued demand that price adjustments are again being made in order to keep in effect the policy of selling Ford products at the lowest price consistent with quality.

"Quality, as usual, said Mr. Ford "will continue to be a prime consideration in the building of Ford cars. As our business has increased we have constantly increased our equipment and manufacturing facilities, so this price reduction merely reflects the progressive methods which come as a result of increased volume. This reduction, which is the sixth since March 1920, brings the price of the Ford Touring car from $575, the price in effect early in 1920, to the present extremely low level of $298, which is nearly 50 per cent less. Corresponding reductions have ben made on all other types. The new prices by types follow: Touring, $298; Runabout $269; Chassis $235; Coupe $530; Sedan $595; and the 1-ton Truck $380. (Adv).

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

The Mexia Daily News of October 26, 1902, twenty years ago, says: "At the meeting of the grand lodge Eastern Star held in Waco, P. S. Park of Mexia was elected associate grand patron, an honor worthily bestowed for Phocion is an A-1 lodge man, very popular with the members, and is competent to fill any position".

There are 365 days in the year. Of these 365 days, the great majority of us work only eight hours per day. This is one-third of the time, or approximately 121 days. There are 52 Sundays in the year, and 52 Sundays subtracted from 121 working days leave 69 working days. Then the great mass of us get Saturday afternoon off. This is equivalent to 26 days throughout the year. Twenty-six days subtracted from 69 working days leaves 43 working days. Then there are two weeks' vacation in the year. This is 14 days, and the 14 days subtracted from the 43 working days leave 29 working days. There are also during the year 12 holidays, and the 12 holidays subtracted from the 29 working days leave 17 working days. We all receive one hour for lunch each day. This is equivalent throughout the year to 13 days. That is, 13 lunch hour days subtracted from the 17 working days leave 4 working days. Now, every one knows that there are 4 Jewish holidays during the year. Four holidays subtracted from the 4 working days leave no days. Then, why do you askwhy prices are high and business is rotten?—C. E. World.

BRYAN NAVASOTA ROAD AUTOMOBILE CRASH

(Navasota Examiner-Review)

Two Ford automobiles were pretty badly wrecked in an accident yesterday afternoon on the Bryan road leading north from this city, but fortunately none of the occupants of either car were seriously hurt, as far as can be learned today. The accident occurred near the north end of the concrete roadway across the Navasota river bottom. Is is said that one of the cars belonged to a Mr. Harrison. of College Station. The other was a rent car from this city in which a party of girls and boys were driving. This car belonged to P. V. Worbington. It is said that one of the girls was driving the Worbington car at the time of the accident. It seems that upon approaching the other car the driver turned to the right side of the roadway. but it is said she turned too far and was about to run off the concrete when one of the boys in the car gave the wheel a quick twist to prevent running off the roadway. and in doing so turned too far to the left and the two cars collided. It is said that both the cars, which were Fords, suffered considerable damage in the wreck, but fortunately no serious injury was sustained by any occupant of either car as far as we have been able to learn today, though it was a narrow escape for them all.

THIS AND THAT

County Superintendent Eck Smith announces that he has the promise of a gallon of pure Brazos County sorghum made near Edge. Superintendent Smith talks as though this is a wonderful feat. Perhaps it is. Back yonder in earlier days we recall the fact to Supt. Smith that he drove the horses (we all have) to make thousands of gallons of this luscious sorghum syrup and it was boiled in a great copper vat and the old darkey who presided told such wonderful tales about the millions of gallons he had made and put up in jugs. Have we forgotten? Judge Lane of Hearne, and Col. A. D. Jackson, of College, now expect to get all these luxuries by "pounding" or otherwise. It is nearly time for somebody to go back to work. Who shall it be, Bro. Smith?

Col. A. D. Jackson, executive assistant of the A. & M. experiment station, talks eloquently regarding the new meat chevon. But so far the Eagle has seen none of this juicy morsel that seems to have sprung into existence over night. Col. Jackson intimates that this is wonderful meat—perhaps the sort that Julius Ceasar—and will melt on your palate, but what we want to see at present is the real meat.

When Prof. L. D. Borden, of the State Department of Education, asked County Agent C. L. Beason at the Edge school dedication the other night if there was a farm terraced in Brazos County. Mr. Beason answered, "Not completely." Mr. Beason announces in his club notes that he is ready for an intensive campaign along the lines of saving our Brazos county farms. What Brazos county needs is more farms terraced completely so that the soil will not be washed in the Gulf of Mexico.

TEXAS REPORT SHOWS BIG GAIN IN COTTON GINNINGS FOR 1922

U. S. Census Bureau Gives Report Up To October 18, and the Increase in the United States is 1,362,670 Bales—Texas Gain is 825,137 Bales

(By Associated Press).

WASHINGTON, October 25.—Cotton ginned in the United States prior to October 18, amounted to 6,962,034 bales, the United States Census Bureau announced today. Ginnings prior to October 18, last year amounted to 5,497,364 bales. Texas ginnings this year are 2,637,395 bales. Last year it was 1,738,558 bales. The increase for Texas is 825,137 bales and the prices have ranged much higher for all classes of staple.

ALLEN TEAM LOOMS STRONG ON HORIZON

(Special to the Eagle)

WACO, Tex., Oct. 26.—The Terrill Training school, coached by Pete Cawthon, defeated the Dallas University academy last week in the first game of the season that had direct bearing on the race for the championship of Baylor University's new Texsa Academy Athletic conference. The 7 to 0 victory by Cawthon's club places Terill at the top of the ladder with a percentage of 1.000.

The Allen Academy team of Bryan, one of the strongest contenders for the title, journeyed to Rusk last week, where the Bryan Hill Toppers defeated the Rusk college team by a score of 7 to 0. Rusk is coached by Bubs Mosley, former Baylor University mentor, and he produced a team that proved rather tough for the Allen boys. On several occasions with the ball within the very shadow of the Rusk goal posts, Allen could not show sufficient punch to carry it over. The pupils of Hudson, and Moore, however, showed a sterling defense, that will be of much value to the team in its conference games. The San Marcos Baptist academy team took on Bryan high last week.

ALLEN LOOMS STRONG

Thus far the Allen academy team seems the class of the new conference this season but the Bryan school has been winning its games with the services of Cortemeglia and Corneilusen. The former has performed nobly against all opposition, flashing in the same brilliant manner that characterized his play in high school circles last season. In fact he is an even better player today than he was a year ago.

But Cortemeglia is ineligible for the conference games. He will not be allowed to play against the Dallas University academy, San Marcos Baptist academy, Terrell or Powell training school. Just how strong the Bryan academy will be without the services of such a star is just now a mooted question.

The game of this week, however, between Allen and Dallas University academy will go a long way in answering that question.

Do not neglect the sowing of fall ats, etc., for winter grazing and cover crops. Some two or three years ago Mr. A. H. Leidigh of the Experiment Station stated that rye sown at the Experiment Station had paid as a grazing crop the cost of sowing every day during the month of April. Do you need a better report than this? Try the grazing crop and report your success.

Little Misses Helen and Victoria Regmund the charming young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Regmund are returning for their home in Smetana after spending a week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Fridel at Kurten.

Mrs. Lee J. Rountree and Mrs. M. R. Bentley will return home from Dallas tonight where they have been attending the Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star of Texas.

"THE LORD WILL PROVIDE"

With so much dry weather and no fall gardens in sight what will Judge J. Felton Lane of The Hearne Democrat do to get through the coming winter? It is said it will be a long and bad winter. The squirrels and foxes have put on thick coats of hair and the ground hog has furrowed deep into mother earth. All the big migratory birds have long since gone far South. Signs are ominous, Bro. Lane, what are you going to do? Let us know.—Lee J. Rountree in Bryan Eagle.

Your solicitude, Brother Rountree, does you credit and shows you have a tender heart. Most city editors like yourself who live on the fat of the land, smoke one dollar cigars made out of real tobacco instead of cabbage, and have their own private wine cellars, don't care a whoopee how fares it with their country bretheren. You forget, Brother Rountree, that while no one would think of "pounding" a high dignitary like a city editor, the country editor is constantly receiving fresh country sausage, spare ribs, ribbon cane syrup, and every other edible one could desire. A friend even promised us some vension a few days ago, but we know that he will either not find any deer or that he is a wretched shot, because friends have been promising us vension for many years without delivering the goods. They are truthful, but poor shots.—J. Felton Lane in Hearne Democrat.

The Lord helps those who help themselves. Judge Lane should not depend too much on "pounding" and such. Better take your own trusty gun and go out after big game. You might get some fish from Smetana, but the catch may be small, and you know the "trimmings" are not available now.—Nick P. Houx in the Mexia Daily News.

Ever since Postmaster Bush, of Mumford, sent Judge Lane the barrel of vegetables last year the Hearne editor has been waiitng for more. Col. A. D. Jackson, of A. and M. College talk of chevon, the new meat and County Superintendent Eck Smith is banking on his sorghum molasses from Edge. Judge Lane was in Bryan the other day and didn't seem to realize there were no turnips, radishes or mustard in sight. The Eagle has not seen our friend, R. M. Nall since the drouth set in. The wild game is flying pretty high, Brother Lane, and there are no fall gardens. If the Lord finds you he will have to provide something. If you receive more than you need, Brother Lane, let us know. Nick Houx expects to wax fat on the oil fields of Mexia and doesn't care what the price of turnip greens go to. County Agent Beason states that the reason his neck is so long it grew that way to be able to taste the East Texas peach preserves a long, long time. But it seems there are not much preserves this year. Bro. Beason is an optimist, however, and he solemnly promises he will have more than he needs and will divide with his friends. In the meantime the wise man (like the ant and the bee) provides against the rigors of a hard winter. "On With the Battle."

J. H. Parsons of Millican, was in town today on business.

NO VERDICT YET RENDERED IN MAYFIELD INJUNCTION CASE

Jury Asked for Copy of McNamara Letter and Retired This Morning and Could Not Agree on Any of the Twenty-one Questions—Still Out at 2:30 Thursday Afternoon.

(By Associated Press)

CORSICANA, Oct. 26.—The jury in the case seeking to keep the name of Earle B. Mayfield off the November ballot as a democratic senatorial candidate at 9:45 o'clock this morning asked Scarbrough for a copy of the letter in which Mike McNamara said he wrote Mayfield enclosing $200 and reply of Mayfield and registered receipt on which appeared Mayfield's name signed by "I. Dillard." They were turned over to the jury. Foreman Melton asked the court if it would be proper to say how the jury stood but was told "no." Foreman Melton said no agreement had been reached on any of the 21 questions submitted to the jury. The jury then returned for further deliberation and it seems will be hopelessly disagreed as it has had the case about 48 hours. At 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon no further word had come from the jury. Later jury informally reported it was unable to agree at 2:30. The court refused to discharge them.

CASE PENDING BEFORE TEXAS SUPREME COURT

AUSTIN. Oct. 26.—On request of the supreme court the attorney general's department today filed additional authorities on the state's side of the Mayfield injunction suit which was heard by the court yesterday. The courts request indicated an early decision in the case. The court was not expected to meet today. Secretary of State Staples said today he cannot take action until the Dallas court of civil appeals renders decision based on the supreme court's answer to the certified questions.

Weak Back

Mrs. Mildred Pipkin, of R. F. D. 8, Columbia, Tenn., says: "My experience with Cardui has covered a number of years. Nineteen years ago . . . I got down with weak back. I was run-down and so weak and nervous I had to stay in bed. I read of and sent for it. I took only one bottle at that time, and it helped me; seemed to strengthen and build me right up. So that is how I first knew of Cardui. After that, . . . when I began to get weak and 'no account', I sent right for Cardui, and it never failed to help me."

CARDUI

If you are weak and suffering from womanly ailments, Cardui may be just what you need. Take Cardui. It has helped thousands, and ought to help you.
